Locals spot distress flares

25 IN LIFEBOAT SAVED

OFF ALTONA

Residents from Seaholme and Altona played a big part last week in the rescue of 25 people stranded when Lifeboat 15 of the liner SS Canberra ran aground on a reef near Altona.

The lifeboat, carrying seven crew and 18 passengers, ran aground after coxswain, Mr. J. H. Warman, had failed to sight navigational lights from Station Pier.

"We then headed towards Williamstown and I could not see navigational lights there either," Mr. Warman told Altona policeman, Const. Alan Kenendy.

Tug crews had refused to dock the Canberra in protest against the killing of 13 people in Northern Ireland by British troops.

The lifeboat crew fired five distress flares into the sky to signal that the boat was in distress. The flares were sighted by local residents Mr. Graeme Blunt of Garden Grove, Seaholme and Mr. Charles Sutton of Civic Parade, Altona.

Altona police, Sgt. Richard Harvey and Const. Kennedy also sighted the flares from their patrol car.

Two men in a fishing boat were the first to reach the marooned passengers.

They rescued three of the passengers and the other 15 including elderly people and children were guided to shore across the rocks by Const. Kennedy and a number of Seaholme residents who waded out to the lifeboat.

Const. Kennedy said the water was 3½ ft. deep in parts.

Onshore Sgt. Harvey radioed for help. The P and O Line arranged for taxis to pick up passengers after they had been given cups of tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Green-shields of Seaholme.

A second lifeboat was missing in the bay for about one hour.

The craft, carrying 18 passengers to the Canberra, turned up at shipside at about 1 a.m. and the search for her was called off.

Two girls bashed

A 13-year-old Laverton girl had three teeth broken and an eye blackened in Pier Street, Altona, last Saturday afternoon after she had abused a youth for scaring her horse.

She was one of two girls assaulted in Altona during the weekend.

On Friday night a 15-year-old girl was waiting for her father at Altona Railway Station when a youth walked up and struck her in the face.

Both attacks have been described as "very low acts" by Altona police.

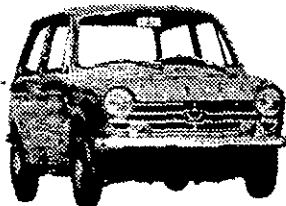

The assault on Saturday afternoon occurred after a youth who, police say, appeared to have been drinking, scared a horse that was ridden by a Laverton girl.

The girl told Altona police that she abused the youth and he retaliated by punching her.

The girl's sister was with her when the incident occurred at 1.50 p.m. on Saturday opposite the Logan Reserve Park.

Altona police are appealing to witnesses of either of the assaults to come forward and aid them in apprehending the offenders.

The Weavers' "five-year plan" takes them to Indonesia

Ten years ago local builder and Board of Works Commissioner Cr. Harry Weaver and his wife Lorna decided they wanted to see how people in other parts of the world live.

They agreed there and then that they would start saving for trips overseas every five years.

Last month, their five-year plan swung into operation, when they took their eldest children, Paul 14½, and Jennifer, 12, with them on a 17-day trip to Indonesia.

Paul, with one year of Indonesian he had learnt at school, thought it would be great to act interpreter for Mum and Dad. So the Weavers packed away their camping gear and headed west, by plane, to Perth.

They stayed in Perth for four days, spending some time with former Altona identities, Don and Val Macauley, who were pleased to catch up with the latest news from Altona.

Next stop was Jakarta, the capital of Indonesia, and the four hours of flying from Perth was of special interest to Harry, who was able to view some of the famous beaches from a long way up and take "bird's eye view" pictures of the Dirk Hartog Islands.

After landing in Jakarta, the Weavers were amazed at the density of the traffic (old Mt. Mistake was never like this).

And they were soon to discover that Paul's one year of Indonesian was not sufficient to thwart a shrewd taxi-driver. Consequently the first taxi-fare was a dear one.

During their sightseeing tours it soon became apparent to the Weavers that in Jakarta the Indonesians had attempted to create a Canberra-style capital, but had been stopped half way by the need to find more food and work for the nation's 120 million people.

(The total area of Indonesia is less than one-sixth that of Australia).

Altona's four sight-seers enjoyed themselves mingling with the Indonesians, whom they found to be hardworking and apparently friendly with Australians despite the fact that few of them knew where Australia was in relation to their own country.

They inspected much of the silverware and wood-carvings made by the local tradesmen and were surprised to find that these workers rarely earn more than 450 rupees (one dollar Australian) a week.

But, unlike Australia, the cost of living in Indonesia is very low, with most houses having no services at all and rice being the main food.

After four days in Jakarta, the visitors flew on to Jojakarta, the capital of central Java.

A fascinating feature of this agricultural centre was the age of some of the temples, some dating back to the 9th century.

It was while visiting one of these temples that the Weavers were surrounded by young teenage girls who were fascinated by Jennifer's blonde curly hair — and blue eyes. Jennifer now has a few more pen friends. In Joja, Harry, with an eager eye for antiques, bought an old shield which weighed down one suitcase.

A great experience for the Weavers was visiting the home of an Indonesian family one night.

Leaving Joja, they headed for the island of Bali, flying low for much of the 600-mile trip. They were again surprised to see so much of central Java under cultivation.

Green-terraced rice paddies rose to within 50 ft. of the top of 4000-ft. high mountains. The plane trip to Bali also took its passengers alongside 8000-ft. high, active volcanoes.

The Bali airstrip looked like something out of a wartime movie with army huts still standing near the airstrip. Bali was not so densely populated and the people, appeared to have more money, probably due to the tourist trade. The houses, too, were different, grouped into little villages, each with its house of worship.

A feature of Bali was the plays and dances performed by the local people.

The plays seemed to be based on the people's religion and provided good entertainment.

Several tours were available to various parts of the island, including one to Monkey Forest, where hundreds of monkeys ran free.

• Cr. Harry Weaver

While in Bali, the Weavers stayed at Bali Beach Hotel, where other guests included Footscray Football Club president, Mr. Jack Collins, and State Opposition leader, Mr. Clyde Holding.

Guests at the hotel were from all over the world and the Weavers were horrified to find that few people took the next step over to Australia.

After Bali, the Weavers returned to Altona via Sydney by Pan Am Airlines.

They flew over Alice Springs on the way back.

They brought back with them decorative ceremonial masks, silverware, wood carvings, and souvenirs of their trip.

Neerim centenary Why Altona?

Neerim District will celebrate its centenary from March 17 to March 20.

"Back to" celebrations will start with a wine and cheese tasting on the Friday night.

On Saturday, the Neerim District Show will be held and features include a back to all churches, barbecue lunch and sports programme.

The police pipe band and the tent pegging team will also appear.

There will be an antique photo display and community singing on the Sunday. A back to schools and afternoon picnic, sports meeting and concert will provide an exciting round-up to the celebrations on Monday.

Particulars and other details are available from Mr. Harold English, of Neerim, or Mrs. M. Greenwood, of Noojee, phone 13 or 64.

Fat females feel free from flab

The fat ladies around your street can lose a bit of weight and help make Australia beautiful.

Their solution is to join the T.O.W.N. club that serves the western suburbs.

T.O.W.N. — Take Off Weight Naturally — meets every Thursday night in the Presbyterian Church Hall, Paringa Road, Altona North.

It costs 30 cents a week and the club's present 25 members have been averaging a total weight loss of between 38 and 42 lbs. a week.

There are no drugs, no gimmicks, but only simple oral therapy, mass weighing, good social fun and the exclusion of "ukky foods".

Each month the lady who loses the most becomes Queen for a month. Members need a doctor's certificate, and should be more than one-and-a-half stone overweight.

FINE OR PRISON

An Altona man was fined $40, in default of eight days imprisonment, by Mr. G. Miller, SM, at Footscray Court last Thursday.

Barry Charles Undy did not appear in court.

Undy, of McIntosh Road, Altona North was charged with having, on the night of January 9 this year, indecently exposed himself.

Special Duty Squad police told Mr. Miller that Undy had been only about five feet from a street light when the offence occurred, in Nicholson Street, Footscray.

At Footscray police station, Undy had said he had been drinking at a Nicholson Street hotel.

Asked why he had not used the hotel toilet, he had said: "I didn't think of it."

Rain causes traffic jam

Northbound motorists sat bumper to bumper from Kororoit Creek to The Esplanade when sudden rain caused a mass exodus from Altona beach via Millers Road on Sunday afternoon.

Construction of the railway overpass north of Kororoit Creek Road has necessitated the building of a detour along Millers Road and this detour caused traffic to bottleneck and slow down for some time on Sunday.

As the rain became heavier more people left the beach causing one of the longest lines of traffic seen in Millers Rd. for some time.

Kinder meeting

The first meeting of Altona West Kindergarten's 1972 Parent Committee will be held at the kindergarten, in Somers Pde., next Thursday, February 17, at 8 p.m.

Parents of children attending the kindergarten have been asked to make a special effort to attend this meeting.

Last year, the committee held two street stalls which raised $154, and four special efforts which raised $200. The money helped the committee to buy furniture, toys and valuable equipment for the kindergarten, as well as paying for gifts and a party for the children.

BYE

Three Altona youths pleaded guilty at Sunshine court last Wednesday to charges of having broken into the Sitch Bus Company's depot at Altona and stolen almost $1000.

Two were released on two years probation. The third, who admitted prior convictions, was sent to prison for three months.

Mr. H. Boarder, SM, sentenced Gordon John Cusatar, of Mulga Street, Altona, to three months imprisonment.

He said the sentence was necessary because of Cusatar's record, but he had made it as lenient as possible.

Released on probation, were Peter John Frank, of Romali Street, Altona and Gary John Lockwood, of Maidstone Street, Altona.

Detectives from Williamstown CIB gave evidence of having interviewed the three on December 14 and 15 last year.

Each had admitted the offence, the court was told.

PLANNED

The breaking had been planned earlier the same night when the three were at a bungalow occupied by Lockwood in Queen Street, Altona, police said they had been told.

Franks had said he climbed into the bus depot and opened the padlock with wire cutters to allow the others to get in.

They had found welding equipment in the depot and had broken into the office.

The welding equipment had been used to cut open the safe, after which they had taken bags of silver and notes.

DIVIDED

Detective-Sergeant B. W. Huxtable, who prosecuted said about $345 had been recovered.

He told the court all three youths had been co-operative with the police.

He said Franks came from a good home and had never been in trouble before.

'ASTOUNDED'

Det.-Sgt. Huxtable said he knew Lockwood and his family personally and had been "astounded" when he discovered Lockwood had involved in the breaking.

He had been told the three had been drinking on the night of the offence.

Character evidence was given on behalf of Franks and Lockwood.

Cusatar called no character evidence.

Told by police that Cusatar's mother was in the court, Mr. Boarder asked did he wish to call her to give evidence on his behalf.

He said he did not want to involve her in the incident.

Mr. Boarder made an order for the money not recovered to be paid within the two years.

Limited Reprint Now Available

The Age Encyclopedic World Dictionary

Many "Age" readers were disappointed when our first print run ended last year. Due to the many requests for more copies, we have been able to negotiate a limited reprint, which is now available for "Age" readers only.

Just look at these exclusive features:

★ 50,000 more entries than its nearest competitor at half the price.

★ 1500 illustrations, 2½ million words.

★ 1856 pages, magnificent binding in red Buckram and rolled gold.

★ Size 10" x 6.3/4" x 2½", weight 4 lb. 7 oz.

The World Encyclopedic Dictionary published by Paul Hamlyn and "The Age" is bigger and better than any dictionary in English in its price range. It's the ONLY Encyclopedic Dictionary with all the new words that science has brought into our language... all the slang words and the Australian terms that never find their way into other dictionaries.

★ Definitions are given in order of current usage, not in historical order. Many scientific and technological definitions not in other general dictionaries.

★ Thousands of statistical, geographical, biographical and historical entries not normally found in a standard size dictionary.

★ A full coverage of Australian and New Zealand words, including many not previously recorded.

★ It contains vogue words (e.g. "psychedelic") slang words and archaic words.

★ It contains foreign words and phrases, abbreviations and symbols.

★ All entries are given in a single alphabetical list; compounds are treated as separate entries, not run on in the usual confusing manner.

★ Definitions have been carefully grouped and numbered.

★ A special pronunciation guide has been written by G. F. Arnold, of the Institute of Phonetics, London. The results is that this is a complete text reference book and gives a broader sweep of all areas of information than any other one-volume British publication. It is also an entirely up-to-date dictionary of common usage and is abreast of the fast changing English language. For the first time in 30 years you get a dictionary that has been taken to pieces and completely rebuilt to bring it right up-to-date. And note that word ENCYCLOPEDIA — it means that you will quickly find all the people and places who are just as important today as the new words — (it's not every dictionary that lists the Beatles!) Any comparable dictionary would cost more than $13 and then you might miss the Australian words!

John Clarke, B.Sc., Ph.D., Lecturer in Architectural Science, University of Sydney says...

"This is the first relevant dictionary to appear in 30 years. I find it outdates them all. It's refreshingly easy to find your way about, and carries more scientific terms than I had ever thought to see in a work like this. And it recognises that sex and slang have their place in our lives. A very good dictionary. And not before time. For the price, I do not know of any dictionary more suitable for students. It certainly could not have appeared at a better time." COPIES OF THE ENCYCLOPEDIA WORLD DICTIONARY ARE AVAILABLE AT OUR COLLINS AND SPENCER STREETS OFFICES FOR YOU TO LOOK AT. PLEASE ASK TO SEE THEM AT THE COUNTER. IF YOU WISH TO OBTAIN YOUR COPY PERSONALLY, SIMPLY TAKE A COUPON AND YOUR MONEY TO EITHER OF THE "AGE" CITY OFFICES, 250 Spencer Street, or 239 Collins Street.

BLACK JACK'S BACK FOR BIG BAD SANDOWN

Three times World Champion racing driver Jack Brabham and up-and-coming Melbourne GP driver Tim Schenken will be two of the many personalities at Sandown for the Australian Grand Prix meeting on Sunday, February 20.

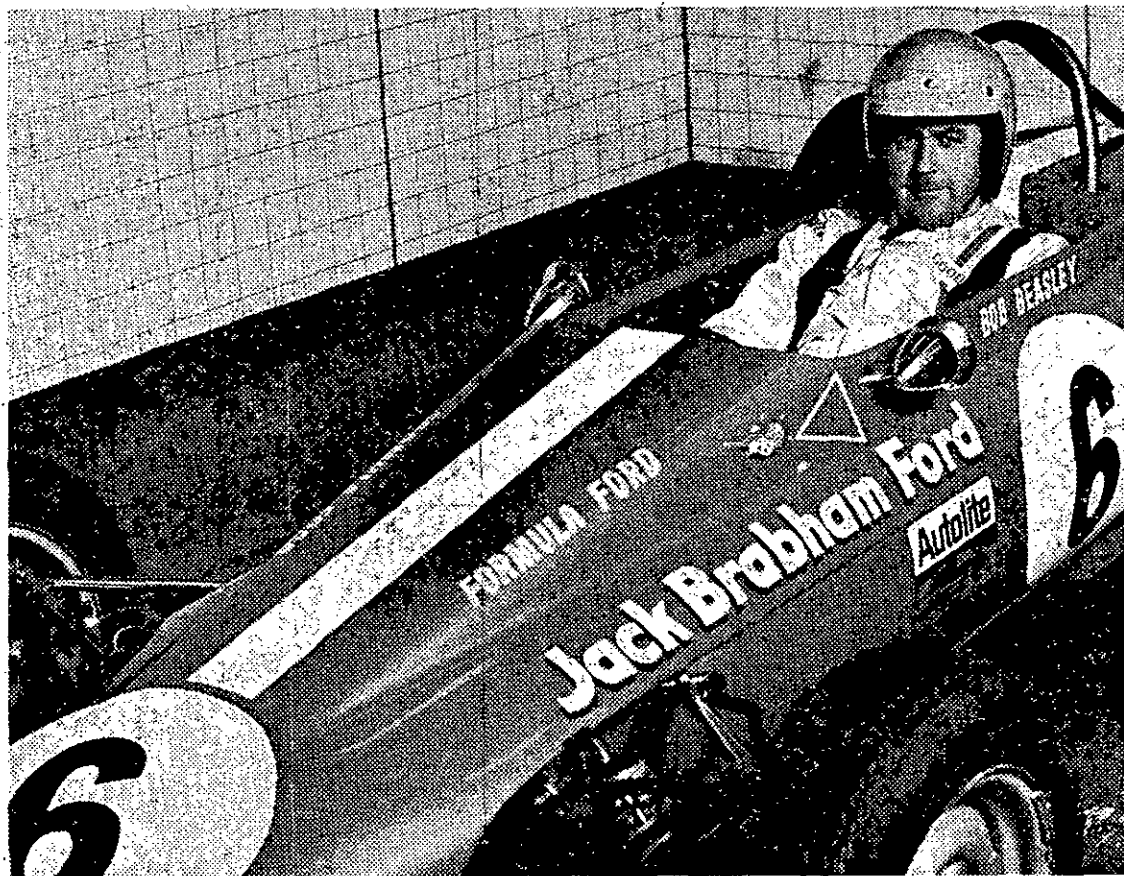

Brabham and Schenken will do a lap of honor in an open $60,000 Mercedes-Benz limousine to lead a field of Formula Ford cars to the starting grid.

The cars will be taking part in the eight-lap second round of the TAA National Formula Ford driver-to-Europe series.

Both drivers have a strong interest in Formula Ford — Brabham sponsors a car in Australian events, while Schenken used Formula Ford as a springboard into the international Formula One ranks.

Schenken, 28, who is flying in from the United States for a holiday in his home country, won the European Formula Ford Championship in his first year, graduated through Formula Three and Formula Two in Europe, and last year drove for the Brabham Works Team in partnership with ex-World Champion Graham Hill.

This year he signed to drive Surtees-Ford in World Championship events. He came fifth in the recent Argentine Grand Prix.

Schenken will have a further interest in the Sandown meeting, where he will be watching the performance of his new team Surtees team mate Mike Hailwood in a Formula 5000 TS8 Surtees Chevrolet in the 100-mile Rothmans-sponsored Australian Grand Prix.

Schenken will also present special medallions to placegetters in the Formula Ford race.

Brabham will also have another close interest in the Grand Prix — particularly the start.

He has been made an official of the meeting and will rop the starting flag on the 20-car field in the event — the seventh round of the Tasman series.

The Curtain Rises

By Thisbe

The Odd Couple is an entertaining play about two people who have such opposite personalities, that only trouble could result when they decide to share a flat.

The play is on at Williamstown Little Theatre between Wednesday, February 23 and Saturday, March 4.

Bookings can be made at M. S. Marr's Music Shop, 49 Ferguson Street, Williamstown, from Monday, February 14.

The play has an amusing plot. Oscar's wife has divorced him because he is a "slob".

Things look better when he takes in Felix Ungar, played by Vin Foster. Felix, newly separated from his wife, is a perfectionist at all things domestic.

It is not long before Oscar feels the need for a little feminine company, so he introduces Felix to the Pigeon sisters, Gwendolyn and Cecily, played by Maggie McInnes and Geraldine Dowling.

The unexpected results will surprise you as much as they did Felix and Oscar.

Change-over day will be Sunday, February 13 at the theatre between 2 and 4 p.m.

If you are a subscriber with unexpected visitors, call on Alec Colvill for your ticket arrangements.

CAMERA CLUB RESUMES

Williamstown Camera Club conducted its first meeting for 1972 in the Methodist church hall in Pascoe Street, last Thursday.

People who enjoy taking photos should join a camera club — it is the quickest way to enjoy your camera and save money on films.

This was the advice of Neil Town — Herald camera news writer.

Williamstown Camera

Club welcomes any new members — beginners or advanced.

The club has outings to other clubs as well as outdoor excursions.

On Saturday February 12, members will meet at the church hall at 1.30 p.m. and then go on to Tullamarine.

Fees are moderate.

Being a member of a camera club gives you the chance to have your work evaluated through club competitions.

February competition was "Flower study".

Mr. John Inglis awarded his placings to 1. Mr. T. Young, 2. Mrs. M. Wyatt, eq. 3. Mrs. I. Trist and Miss G. Leslie.

The next meeting is on Thursday week.

Top stars at Bowl

Australia's Colleen Hewett, star of Godspell, popular artist Matt Flinders and Donald Smith, leading tenor with the Australian Opera Company, will entertain in Music for the People at the Myer Music Bowl on Sunday week.

The concert will start at 3.15 p.m. and music will be by the Australian Symphony Orchestra.

The orchestra will be conducted by Hector Crawford.

A man released on probation last October was sentenced in Footscray Court last Thursday to 24 hours' imprisonment.

Mr. G. Miller, SM, said in sentencing Neil Joseph Maloney he had taken into account the fact that the defendant had been in custody for seven days before the hearing.

Maloney, of McDonald Road, Altona North, was sentenced on the original charge.

Police told the court that Maloney had been charged last October 10 with unlawful assault and had been released on probation.

24 HOURS GAOL FOR MAN ON PROBATION

The charge had resulted in Maloney having grabbed a landlady around the neck and demanded his brother's address, which it was said, she did not know.

A probation officer said Maloney's habits since had been erratic and he had been prone to occasional drinking bouts.

He had also not reported to his probation officer as demanded.

He had been a patient at Royal Park hospital some of the time since October.

Maloney told Mr. Miller he had a job to go to if he was released.

He realised he had done wrong, and, if released, would live with his mother.

Mrs. Maloney, told the court she would be prepared to have her son living with her.

The probation officer said Maloney had a long history of probations.

The pattern in each case had been the same, he said.

Nelson Gallery re-opens Feb. 12

After a break over the holiday period, the Nelson Gallery, at 143 Nelson Place, Williamstown, will re-open on Saturday, February 12, at 2 p.m.

Following the pattern established over the past two years, the gallery, which caters solely for residents in the western suburbs, will continue its practice of exhibiting the art work of local and well known artists.

The director, Bob Cunningham, hopes that this year more local artists will exhibit, and that residents and art lovers from this side of Melbourne will give them encouraging support.

Last year saw a tremendous development in the work of Newport artist, Laurie Finney, whose paintings of typical Australian landscapes sold extremely well. Some were bought to send overseas.

It might be surprising to some people that clients from interstate visit the Nelson Gallery specifically for some of the interesting prints and drawings in the second room.

Works by Norman and Lionel Lindsay, John Shirlow, Phil May, Arthur Boyd, Van Dyck and others are available.

At the moment an original Rembrandt etching is for sale, but unfortunately its badly torn condition makes it less valuable.

However, for the real enthusiast with a bit of patience and skill in restoration, it is a genuine bargain.

As usual, the gallery is open from 2-5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, sometimes a little later during the summer months.

Swimmers' money stolen

Altona police received a number of complaints at the weekend from beachgoers who claimed that thieves had stolen money from their clothing while they swam.

At least seven cases were reported to Altona police.

The amounts of money ranged from $4 to $35, and one man lost a set of keys which were valuable to him.

In all cases, the thieves struck when their victims were swimming.

Altona police warn beachgoers not to leave amounts of money in their clothing on the beach while they are swimming.

Found—two tyres

Somebody threw two perfectly good Olympic tyres — lorry variety — on to Blackshaws Road, Williamstown last month.

Well that is where they were found by Newtown police.

It seems most likely that they fell off a vehicle.

And if the owner reads this they are waiting at the cop shop in Newport to be picked up.

Bikes thrown on to railway after theft

Altona police are looking for the owners of two blue and red pushbikes which are believed to have been stolen and thrown on the Altona railway line by vandals.

The cycles, which were both run over by the Altona train, were discovered on the line not far from Altona Station last Saturday morning and handed to police.

They are badly in need of repair.

During the weekend, thieves also stole bicycles belonging to two young boys who were fishing from the Magazine pier, and another cycle was stolen from the Altona Pier vicinity.

Need those gnashers?

When somebody found the top half of a set of dentures buried in sand at Williamstown beach he handed them into the police station — little thinking of the problem he was creating for the local constable.

In effect, somebody is wandering around Williamstown with half his teeth missing.

The denture was found on Williamstown beach near the life saving club at 9 p.m. on January 31.

Newtown police would be happy to return them to their owner.

They don't need 'em themselves...
